Lincoln's Hat

1

5

Abe Lincoln was one of the greatest American presidents. Although he was great, he was not very handsome. He was tall and thin. When he was young and became a lawyer, he wanted to look better. So he bought a long black coat and a tall black hat. The tall black hat made him look better.

Abe Lincoln was a smart lawyer. People came to him with all kinds of problems. He helped them all. But he had one problem.

He forgot to answer letters. He forgot where he put important papers. A good lawyer should not forget.

Abe wanted to be a good lawyer, but he was not a good paper-keeper.

In 1860, Abe ran for president. Stephen Douglas ran for president, too. Abe won the election. Abe grew a beard for his new job.

Abe was going to make his first speech as president. He took his tall hat and his speech. He looked for a place to put his hat. 5

Stephen Douglas stepped up, "If I can't be president," he said, "I can at least hold his hat."

Abe Lincoln was a great president. He freed the slaves. He worked for fair laws. He helped to unite the nation after a long war.

But he never changed his ways. He always kept important papers in his tall hat! 10
